The method, which is based on whole denomerations sequence in an of orphic archiven M. jamosschil, the denome of which consists of a physically distinct ofenents, a large circular extra chromosome (the 164775 by sequence diven in AAVZ1209), a large circular extra chromosomal element (the 18480 by sequence diven in AAVZ1210), and a small circular extra chromosomal element (the 1659 by sequence diven in AAVZ1210), and a small circular extra chromosomal element (the 1659 by sequence diven in AAVZ1211), can be used in the identification of M. jamosschili genome cells. The sequences can also be used in the rapentic applications corresponding sequences from a biological sample such as tumour trom the 2041 Camplicon. It is expressed in normal tissues but not been found in the breast carry, cell line. It can be used as a pro-for the detection of chromosomal abnormalities at 2041 C. It and
